GREEN BLACK WALNUT TINCTURE

Green Black Walnut Hull gets its name from the fact that the black walnuts are harvested from the tree while they are still green.

The green tincture from the black walnut tree is a high-potency formula that exceeds the potency of many other black walnut tinctures available. This is because we use highly potent organic green hulls of the black walnut tree (high juglone content) grown in the Troodos mountains of Cyprus that have been fed only natural nutrients. These hulls are added to Grape Alcohol (45%) or Zivania, which is a traditional Cypriot alcoholic drink that comes from the grape skins, high in bioflavonoids, polyphenols and other natural antioxidants.

The tincture is bottled in glass amber bottles to protect it from oxidation and degradation by light. There is no rubber pipette that can contaminate the tincture, only a sealed top. The colour of properly-made Walnut tincture should be green, not black.

One study from 2012 screened plant quinones for inhibiting effects on the bacterial fire blight pathogen. The main active constituent in green black walnuts is juglone.

As the study said, "juglone has a potent and specific bactericidal effect on E. amylovora. Juglone is a promising candidate for the development of a new environmentally friendly plant protectant to replace the antibiotic streptomycin currently used in fire blight control."

Any good herbalist, who has used black walnut hull tincture, either internally or externally, can tell you how effective. Dr. John Christopher tells a great story about how when serving in the army, he used it to cure jungle rot in just four days.
